

Andrus Holds Marital Clinic: Stress Counseling

People with problems concerning marriage and personality difficulties are visiting the Marriage Clinic recently established at Santa Ana College.

In a recent interview, George Andrus, SAC psychology instructor and head of the Clinic emphasized the need for wise counseling and decision concerning personality difficulties. For this reason the SAC Marriage Clinic has been established.

Said Mr. Andrus, "the purpose of the Clinic is to make people realize that as much could be gained by counseling on personal problems as a physician could do in treating a disease of the body. We want to help people cure themselves of personality problems and to enable them to attain success in marriage."

Recent Addition

Although the Marriage Clinic is a recent addition to the SAC campus, approximately ten cases have been taken and several have already been judged successful.

Anyone who feels that he or she has a problem is urged to take advantage of the opportunity to discuss it with a qualified counselor. All counseling is free and is held in strict confidence. They should contact Mr. Andrus or Dr. McNaughton and make an appointment.

Guidance Benefits

When someone engages the help of a counselor he is encouraged to talk about his problem. In this way he unburdens himself and eases his mind. His problem is then discussed and information and assurance is given him. Often reading material is recommended in order that he may learn that others have had his problem and how they handled it.

Insecurity the Problem

Mr. Andrus feels that the insecurity of the times is mainly responsible for the personality problems of today. These problems manifest themselves in marriage relations and cause grief and often broken marriages.

He also thinks that young people considering marriage should realize that there is much happiness and unhappiness in marriage, and they should not be hasty but should investigate and evaluate their personalities and characters to ensure a successful marriage.

The members of the club and their advisor, Miss Marie Pound, were honored by the presence of and Bob McDonald.

Students to Get Free Megaphones

One thousand megaphones have been given to Santa Ana College by the Pepsi Cola Company, and will be issued between 12:00 and 2:00 P.M., today in the Snack Bar, to all students who present a Student Body Card to be punched.

Dons May Receive Mex. Cty. Decision

Permission for the Santa Ana College Don football team to play the Mexico City Institute Politecnico Nacional eleven will be forthcoming this week as the State Junior College Athletic Association will issue a report on the matter at the annual fall conference of California Junior College Directors at Yosemite.

The committee, headed by Leo Wadsworth of Ontario, will decide the issue of whether or not the SAC team may play Mexico because the game, tentatively scheduled for the Aztec Bowl December 15, will take place after the official JC season, which ends the first Saturday in December.

If permission is granted, the Don squad and coaches Bill and John Ward will fly to the Mexican capital and play the institute, champions of the Mexican inter-collegiate conference. The school will pay necessary expenses, and the team has been granted the privilege of staying over four days at their own expense if they so desire.

The purpose of the conference was "to honor the foundation of America's system of successful growth and prosperity," to emphasize upon the representatives the importance of our freedoms as stated in the Bill of Rights and to plan activities to present to the student bodies.

Approximately fifty students and faculty members representing twelve junior colleges, colleges and universities, attended the conference which was highlighted by a speech by the Honorable Mayor Fletcher Bowron, Mayor of Los Angeles.

The conference featured addresses by men prominent in politics, education and religion. Dr. Fred Fagg, president of the University of California also spoke and warned of the threats of communism.

Daugherty was accompanied by Ernest Crain, political science instructor.

Dons Review May Be Aired Monday Nov. 5

"Fiki" and "Fouina," two students from American Samoa, will be featured in the "Don Review," tentatively set for Mon., Nov. 5, 1951 it was revealed by C. L. Ford, radio instructor, today.

Both young men are talented entertainers and have performed before the public several times here in Santa Ana. For the "Don Review" they will sing two Samoan songs, "Pearl of the Deep," and "Wiggle, Wiggle, Wiggle."

Fouina and Fiki will play the accompaniment on the guitar and ukulele. Their trip to the United States and their reasons for choosing SAC will be the chief topics of a discussion with Albert Fowler, master of ceremonies.

This program is the first in a series of scheduled radio broadcasts to be presented over station KVOE to record college achievements for local listeners.

College to Send Six Students To Fresno JC Conference

Quentin Gallivan, student body president and Russ Murphy, Freshman class president will be among the six students to represent SAC at the California Junior College Student government conference to be held in Fresno November 15, 16 and 17. They will be accompanied by Dr. Daniel C. McNaughton.

Players Rehearse Pygmalion Roles

"It's almost irresistible. She is so deliciously low—so horribly dirty."

"Ah-ah-ow-oo! I ain't so dirty I washed my face and hands before I come, I did."

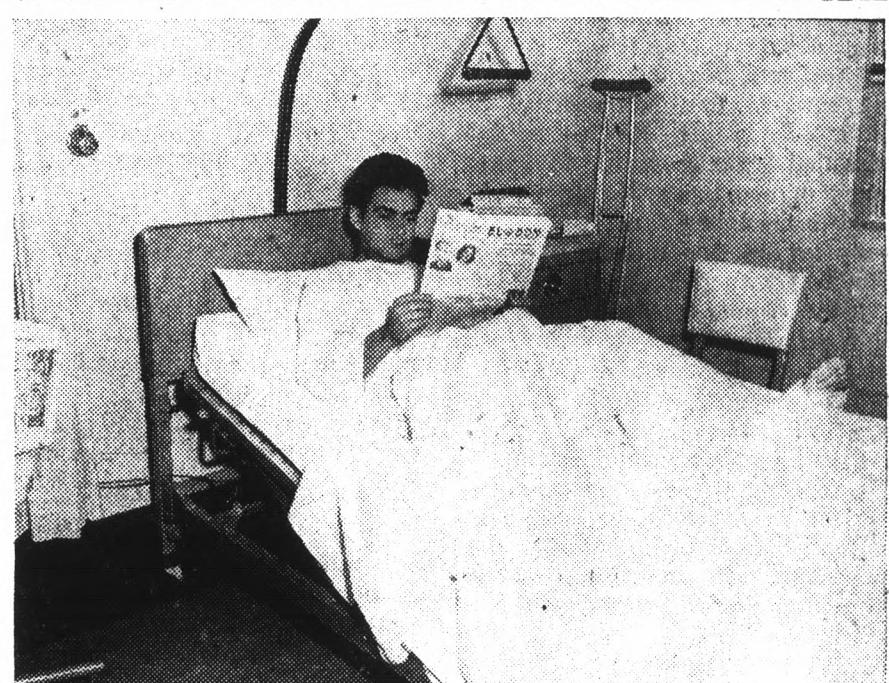

Such are the lines of dialogue in Studio A between Diana Charlton and Dick Wilcox in preparation for their leading roles in the forthcoming production "Pygmalion," which will be presented December 4 through the 8th by the Santa Ana College Players under the direction of C. L. Ford, drama instructor.

Both Diana Charlton and Dick Wilcox have been active in dramatics at SAC. Among the major productions in which they have appeared are "Lost Horizon," "One Foot in Heaven," and "All My Sons."

"Pygmalion" was written by George Bernard Shaw, who proclaimed himself "the dramatic emperor of Europe." Shaw has written more than fifty plays, among those which are world famous are, "Men and Supermen," "Major Barbara," and "Candida."

Sets are now under construction by the members of the drama workshop. Taxing the classes' ingenuity is the rain in the opening scene of the play. Mr. Ford confidently stated, "we shall have rain."

LESPADA RECOVERING IN LEG BREAK

ENJOYING THE EL DON as he is recovering from his football injury is Tommy Laspada who expects to be back at SAC soon.

Tom Laspada will return to the SAC campus Monday following a three week absence as a result of a broken leg.

Laspada fractured two bones in his left leg, the tibia and the fibula, in a scrimmage October 14 while playing defensive halfback.

He is now residing at the home of school nurse Marie Pounds, at 2102 Poinsettia, until his leg heals. Laspada formerly lived at 931 Spurgeon Street with Ciro Masso.

During his recovery at Santa Community Hospital Laspada received flowers from the football team and was paid visits by coaches Bill Cook and John Ward along with other members of the squad. A few girls sent candy.

Miss Pounds expects his leg to mend sufficiently to allow him to play baseball in the spring. Laspada pitches and plays outfield.

A Touch of Paradise

By ROBERT HOUGLAND

"Strange," I thought, "the people are the same as they are in the United States."

In our conversation I had expected to find revealed a land much different; a land pure in its beauty; a land where soft trade winds moved the leaves of towering palm trees languidly; a land tropical; a glimpse of paradise.

"Would you mind?" I turned from my own thoughts back to the new friend I had just made in the person of Kenneth Yamahiro, "Would you mind?" I continued, "telling me more about Hawaii?"

"No," smiled Kenneth, "Not at all." He paused for a moment. "Where would you like for me to begin?"

"Suppose we start from the beginning and work from there."

Background

Kenneth relaxed into a comfortable position.

"Well, I was born February 5, 1932, in the city of Honolulu which is on the island of Oahu."

I started to ask a question, but Kenneth answered it before the words became articulate.

"Most people probably think that Hawaii is one large island, but actually there are three main islands, then these islands are surrounded by smaller ones."

I took advantage of his pause. "What are the three main islands called?"

"The largest island," Kenneth continued, "is Hawaii, then the other two are Oahu, and Maui."

"Which, of the three," I asked, "is considered the most important?"

He did not hesitate. "Oahu has the largest cities, and Pearl Harbor is also located on that island, then it also has the University of Hawaii."

"Then," I said, "The islands of Hawaii and Maui have smaller cities, and are less important in this respect."

"That's right," agreed Kenneth.

City Life

we talked for a few minutes about life in the cities with the similarities of any American metropolis; the seemingly endless whirl of activity; people shopping; people on errands; the rush here; the rush there; the modern buildings; newspapers; restaurants; theaters; taxicabs.

I had still, foremost in my mind, the thought that somewhere in these islands lay the particular item that I was searching for; that touch of romance; of paradise. I tried to think where we could wander next on this mental journey. Finally I turned back to Kenneth.

"How would you compare the high schools in Hawaii with those here in the United States?"

"To be blunt," he smiled, "there is no difference."

I had another mental spasm.

Kenneth smiled understandingly. "There are eight high schools on the island of Oahu; most of the instructors are Americans, and a large number of the students are Americans."

Sports

"What about sports and school activities?" I asked. "Are there no differences there?"

"No," answered Kenneth, "We have the same sports, dances, even the same competitive spirit between high schools."

"What about sports?" I asked. "Have you any one sport that you are particularly interested in?"

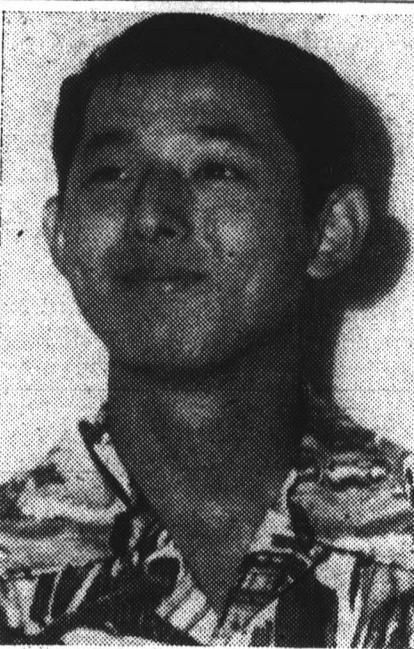

"Well, I like baseball best."

"Have you played much?"

"I played on our high school team in the islands."

"Do you think that you will play here at SAC?"

"I'd like to, if I have the time, and, if I can make the team," he smiled.

KENNETH YAMAHIRO, SAC student, reveals Hawaii in "A Touch of Paradise."

We discussed schools for still a few more minutes; the style of dress worn to school by girls and boys; the levis, and the no shoes worn after school; the football games; the dances. We talked about the University of Hawaii; its too large enrollment which necessitates the coming of students to the U.S., if they are able.

The Luau

Then, our conversation drifted to the Luau.

"The Luau," Kenneth stated, "is a celebration that is given when there is a marriage, an anniversary, or when someone is arriving or leaving."

He told me of the Luau given for him by his friends when he left Hawaii, last August 31, for the U.S.

"First of all," he began, "stones are taken from the river and heated until they are red-hot, then a hole is dug in the ground and lined with the hot stones. Some of the red-hot stones are stuffed inside a cut pig. The pig is then placed in the hole over the hot stones. Potatoes and other vegetables are added, then the hole is covered with wet cloths, banana leaves, and dirt, and then left to cook."

My salivary glands began to function. "What happens during the Luau?" I asked.

He continued, "when the Luau begins there is a big feast, after the feast there is singing and dancing and still more feasting."

"How long does this last?"

Kenneth laughed. "Sometimes it lasts for two or three days."

Sights to See

Somehow we started talking about tourists; about the Royal Hawaiian hotel where they usually stay; about the Manoa valley where tourists slide down muddy trails on palm leaves; about the Waikiki theater, the coconut and palm trees used there as interior decorating.

When I asked Kenneth about some of the points of interest on the islands his smile broadened.

"Probably one of the most interesting sights," he remarked, "is the Nuuanu Pali."

"What is that?" I asked expectantly.

"That's where King Kamehameha drove Captain Cook and his men, who were trying to take over the island, over the high cliffs of Nuuanu Pali." He paused for a moment. The cliffs are near the ocean, and the winds and up-cur-

EL DON

A Letter From 'Swede'

Dear fellow-students

Allow me to extend my sincere and warm gratitude for the most beautiful bouquet of flowers that the student body officers sent me in your behalf. It certainly makes a stricken soul forget his troubles to know that his fellow-men care for and miss him. I miss you very much too. Even though I'm here in bed bodily, I am always with you vicariously in spirit. Here again I say, thank you and so long, until we meet again.

Yours most sincerely,
Suetena Pule
(Swede)

P. S.

Here's my humble cheer to add to the throng's, that will hail the victorious "Dons" in tonight's game.

rents are tremendous." He paused again and sat upright in his chair. "There is one superstition about the cliffs that if you drive your car along a certain place at midnight the car will stop, and it won't start again unless you throw a piece of pork over the cliffs. Some people say that you can see a white streak chase after the pork."

I laughed this time.

"You can laugh if you want to," Kenneth said, "but we tried it and it worked."

My laughter died.

Finally I found what I had been looking for. It was when our conversation drifted away from the talk of the cities; the tourists. We headed inland, toward the hills and the mountains. Here, I found what I had been searching for. I saw that the dark green of the mountains, when viewed from a distance, suddenly turned into dense foliage, which gave way in places to banana groves, to pineapple fields. As you stood on the tallest peak you could see the ocean eddies against the sand shore; on a hill opposite, the bleak glare of a boulder, or cliff, protruding from; above the green foliage. I knew then, that omnipotent above all the evident civilization was the feeling that I had at last found that touch of paradise.

Comes From Mid-west

Carl Simpson came to California in 1936, following a rugged existence in the Mississippi valley area. He is typical of the person of that region, from his blood lines to his appearance. He claims English and Irish descent and "just enough Indian to make me lazy," (one sixteenth Cherokee). Born in Arkansas forty-seven years ago, he traveled around the midwest before bringing his family to the coast. He was a coal miner in Oklahoma, Kentucky and Illinois in his early manhood, and worked in a California paper mill before being ordained in the Pentecostal Holiness Church at Visalia in 1937.

His first three years as a minister were spent doing evangelistic work under Reverend G. A. Byus,

Gallup of Goblin Review

By BOB ELSNER

Santa Ana College is back to normal this week, after last Friday night's Hallowe'en Dance, "Goblin's Gallop," which was held in the Student Union. 175 people, mostly in costume, turned out for the affair.

The lounge, patio, and snack bar of the Student Union were used for the dance. In the lounge, where the actual dancing was done, there were decorations consisting of balloons, paper witches, bats, and ghosts on the walls. The windows had appropriate cartoons and pictures drawn by George Bartell.

Refreshments were served in the snack bar, and they consisted of apple cider from a keg, and assortments of doughnuts.

Prizes were awarded for the best costumes. Winning the prize for the best single costume, was Floyd Lucier, who came dressed as Cyrano de Bergerac (complete with nose). Bob Elsner and Nancy Robison won the best couple prize. They were dressed in costumes of the 1920's.

Although he didn't receive a prize, Bill Moody, who came as a clown, received mention as having "the costume that took the most work to prepare."

The Freshman class sponsored the occasion, and Miss Agnes Todd Miller was the faculty representative.

Part Time Student; Full Time Pastor

By JOHN DOWDEN

Few Santa Ana College students realize that they are attending classes with a full-fledged minister, yet Carl Simpson, pastor of the Pentecostal Holiness Church at 1600 West Fifth, also attends SAC.

Mr. Simpson, who comes to class two hours a day, five days a week, has all morning classes and carries on his church duties at night.

"I marry the living and bury the dead," smiled the burly, friendly man when questioned about his church activities.

"Church Bulletin" His Reason

But Mr. Simpson, whose ministerial duties encompass much more than the above, is certainly active. Besides going to college daily, and serving his congregation in the usual ways, he is indispensable in helping the Ladies' Auxiliary of his church, the Sunday School, the Pentecostal Holiness Young People's Society, the newly organized men's group, and the "Church Bulletin," which is his real reason for attending Santa Ana College.

The husky full-time pastor, part-outstanding religious worker and superintendent of the Northern California Conference of the Pentecostal Holiness Church.

Held Religious Broadcasts

Then he continued his work in the Los Angeles and Bakersfield areas, holding services and broadcasting sermons and religious programs over Southland radio stations.

Mr. Simpson has also raised a good sized family. He has six children; three married, a son in the Navy, a son in Willard Junior high school, and an older son earning his Bachelor of Science degree at USC's medical school this semester.

He has only been connected with the Santa Ana church since August, but has already added nineteen new members to his congregation.

Mr. Simpson plans to finish out a year at Santa Ana College, and will begin English 1A next semester. And although he has little contact with the students outside of his classes, he claims they are friendly and likeable.

The Melting Pot

By ROBERT HATCHER
Reflection of things to come: It is almost staggering to learn that the 1,000,000th traffic fatality will occur in the United States. All sense of reason about traveling the highways and byways is getting so far out of hand, that one might wish that the automobile had never been invented. If 1,000,000 people were suddenly killed by an atom bomb, the tragedy would shock the imagination of the world. Yet the deaths of 1,000,000 people killed in traffic accidents in the last forty years is seemingly accepted with a certain calmness. It appears rather futile, when one tries to think that many of these deaths could have been prevented.

A ray of light beamed through from the Veterans' Bureau last week. Word has been received that students enrolled under the G. I. Bill will receive their subsistence checks on or about December 1. Maybe that extra belt loop will not have to be punched.

Three year law school scholarship with all expenses paid is now being offered to top ranking senior men who are interested in pursuing a career in law. Last year twenty seniors from colleges throughout the United States became recipients of the Root-Tilden scholarships, and are now studying law at the new $5,000,000 New York University Law Center in New York. Any male student between the ages of 20 and 28 and a citizen may apply for the scholarship. All applications must be sent to: Dean of the Law School, New York University Law Center, Washington Square, New York, New York.

These contributions are from commerce, industry, advanced donation, and the public schools. The residential soliciting began yesterday, however more solicitors are needed to cover more areas. The residential invasors are expected to bring in the bulk of the remaining fifty percent yet to be collected.

Dons Snap Losing Streak; Win 25-6 Behind Smith's Passes

Santa Ana's Dons snapped a three game losing streak in their last outing, by defeating Mount San Antonio 25-6, in the Municipal Bowl.

The Mountaineers scored first on a 56 yard drive, but after that, the Dons shut Mt. Sac out while scoring three quick ones in the first half, to lead at intermission 19-6.

Scores Feature Passes

Early in the second quarter, Smith threw a flat pass to halfback Bob Umphress, who side-stepped several would-be-defenders, and went 45 yards to pay dirt. Jack Wilcox's try for point failed and the score was knotted 6-6.

Mt. Sac Fumble Costly

Following a Mountie fumble on their own 22, the Dons again tallied on a 13 yard pass play, Smith to Frank Freese to make it 13-6 following Denny Sampson's conversion.

Jack Wilcox intercepted a stary Mt. Sac pass on the Mountie 21, to set up the Don's third TD. Smith again passed for the score . . . this time to Lloyd Kirby for 16 yards.

Santa Ana's final score came in the fourth quarter when halfback Nobe Kitada romped 49 yards to put the game on ice.

Umphress Second In Conference Scoring

SAC speedster Bob Umphress is pushing Perry "Jitterbug" Jeter of San Bernardino Valley College for the coveted position of being the leading point collector from the Eastern Conference in the Southwest junior college scoring race.

Jeter has crossed the last white stripe eight times for a total of 48 points, playing in five contests. "Bullet Bob" has rambled for seven scores to deadlock with Dick Fouts, all-league selection last year from Mt. San Antonio, with 42. ## Dons Travel to Battle Indians Tonight

Kitada Chosen In Weekly Poll

Nobe Kitada, five foot two inch, 132 pound scatback from Garden Grove was chosen by popular vote as Don of the Week. The weekly poll is conducted by Vnadermast's clothing store.

This was a result of his outstanding play against Mount San Antonio. Kitada was responsible for one Don touchdown when he took a hand-off through left tackle, then cut to his right and scampered 49 yards to pay dirt. He also made a difficult catch of a pass thrown by quarterback Joe Voso and finally stepped out of bounds on the 10 yard line. His defensive work was also outstanding by some nice tackles on Mt. Sac. ball carriers.

Kitada while attending Garden Grove High School lettered in football, basketball, and track. He is probably the smallest man ever to be chosen Don of the Week.

San Bernardino Favorites In Tonight's Fray as Don Squad Weakened

Coach Bill Cook's injury ridden Don football squad will travel to San Bernardino tonight and the new Orange Show Stadium to meet San Bernardino's highly touted Indians, current league leaders and the only remaining undefeated team in the Eastern Conference.

Each team has had a two week rest resulting from bye dates on their schedules last week. The Dons needed the bye to regroup their football forces while trying to replace some of the many injured Santa Ana players. Marvin Kravitz, Jim Matsunaga and Sam Palmer will definitely be unable to take their places in the Don forward wall, and Wayne Schnakenberg, Denny Sampson and Dathan Burns lead the doubtful list.

Umphress Ineligible

The hardest blow the Don grid machine had to take came last week when the team's leading scorer, halfback Bob Umphress, was declared ineligible. Umphress will miss the Indian encounter and possibly the remaining games this year. Freshmen Jack Wilcox and Don Henley are at present the two most likely candidates to succeed the fleet-footed Umphress.

San Bernardino has an impressive record to date, having rolled up 215 points to opponent's 33.

Jeter Leads Indian Attack

Perry Jeter will lead the Indian attack on the Dons. Currently the San Berdo wizard is number one in Eastern Conference scoring, leading the Don's ineligible Bob Umphress by six points.

TIME OUT!

By BOB ELSNER

Last week, Pasadena CC surprised a lot of people (including this writer), by edging Long Beach CC 13-7.

This means that the field has been narrowed down to only three teams for Little Rose Bowl honors: Compton, Pasadena, and San Bernardino.

After tonight's games, there will only be two candidates for the Rose Bowl, because Pasadena meets Compton in the Rose Bowl. The issue could be completely decided tonight, IF Santa Ana could knock off San Berdo!

Hardy Rejoins Cards

Jim Hardy, who made his TV announcing debut at the Santa Ana-Pasadena game on September 21, has quit his job as telecaster of JC football games, to rejoin the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League.

He was persuaded to return to the quarterbacking post that he has held for three years, because of injuries to all but one of the Cardinal signal-callers.

Prior to the Santa Ana-Pasadena game, Hardy visited the SAC campus in order to meet the coaches and players of the Don squad.

San Berdo Ready

According to all reports, the city of San Bernardino is enthusiastic over tonight's Don game. A sell-out crowd of 10,000 is expected at Orange Show Stadium in San Bernardino.
